Mission Statement

Spiekermann's mission is to advance traveler's knowledge boundaries when exploring the world of fascinating destinations we offer. That is what Spiekermann's motto represents. Encouraging people to expand their personal boundaries to learn more about the world and its inhabitants. To go beyond what is expected, to push the limits and gain knowledge that cannot be found any place else but through travel. We are continuously consulting with local operators, planning and laying the foundation for new tours and experiences for our fellow travelers. Our seldom-visited regions offer the traveler opportunities to visit some of the most prodigious ruins built by the ruling civilizations of the ancient Near East where one will tour many of the areas that witnessed the conflicts between powerful nations and their struggles for dominance over the known world. Spiekermann will take you back in time as you travel the same paths of many of the most illustrious figures in the history of mankind. We urge our clients to think of something daring, of fascinating and mysterious places, of adventure the way they have always dreamed it would be...Exceeding all expectations. An exciting way to travel!

Spiekermann selects the best Scholars: Anthropologist, Egyptologists, Historians, Archaeologists and Professors to lead our tours and enhance the understanding of cultures. Spiekermann employs the best local native guides in the countries we visit.

Client Testimonials

Some worry about having an American traveling to anywhere even near the Middle East. This got me to thinking: what if I had stayed home and never traveled? I would never have met the many wonderful people that I shared my adventures with. I would never have made the friends I have in numerous cities around the world. I would never have seen the beauty of the Rose Red city of Petra. I would never have marveled at human ingenuity in building pyramids. The boundaries of my world would have started and ended with all that was familiar. My life would be poorer for it... Camille Van Buren, Las Vegas, NV.

Having traveled with Spiekermann just once (Iran), I am convinced your arrangements on all trips must be among the best in every aspect: originality, organization, pace of visits, group size (small is beautiful!) and comfort level... Gloria De Luca, NY.

I am very glad that Spiekermann Travel Services was been brave enough to organize the trips to Kurdistan and Southern Iraq. The time I spent in these two regions was most educational, and as a student of Ancient Mesopotamia, it was thrilling to see the great sites of Ur, Uruk, Babylon, and Ctesiphon, not to mention the fabulous Iraq Museum in Baghdad. The Imam Ali Shrine in Najaf and the Imam Ali Mausoleum in Kufa were magnificent beyond words. Laurie Glassman, DC.
